to vote "For the Constitution with slavery," or "For the Constitution without slavery," but at all events, they must vote "for the Constitution," in one or the other of the two exact

We are even informed, though we can scarcely eredit the statement, that the admission is not even in so good a form as this. According to this information, the question left to the people is only whether slaves shall hereafter be introduced into the State, or whether it shall continue in the condition in which the Territory now is, with a limit-ed number of slaves, to remain as such under the new Constitution. If this be the true character of the propositions submitted by the Constitution, it is very evident that they do not meet the exi-gencies of the ease, and will never satisfy the people. Independent of the fact, that there is no opportunity given to reject the instrument al-together, or to adopt it by a free and unconstrained vote in its favor, there is in truth, nothing sub-stantial involved in the alternative presented. It is nothing but the old story of the white man and the Indian: "I'll take the turkey and you take the buzzard; or you take the buzzard and I'll take the turkey." It is nothing but a dodge of the most disreputable character.

We cannot but consider this result as most unfortunate, and ealculated to prolong the difficulties in the Territory. It was perhaps the neces-sary consequence of the peculiar circumstances ding the election of the Convention itself. That body was enosen by a mere faction of the population, and could not be considered as representing the masses. Having no sympathy with the people, and conscious of not commanding their confidence, it would have required more than ordinary wisdom to have induced them to hazard their work by putting it fairly and unre-servedly to the popular vote. They have chosen what, in their sharp sighted cunning, seemed to them the more effectual mode of forcing the people to accept one or two alternative propositions giving the majority absolutely no opportuni ty to reject a form of government, which may not be in accordance with their sovereign

We think the Convention has committed a cap ital error. It was in their power completely to redeem themselves in the eyes of the people, and to cure all the defects of their original election. They ought to have risked themselves frankly upon the popular support appealing to the patrio-tism and justice of the people to sustain their acts. With the exception of Judge Elmore, A. W. Jones, and a few other good men, they seemed to be liaunted by the fear that the majority would reject any Constitution that they might make. Better, a thousand times, that their Constitution should be rejected, than that it should be forced upon an unwilling and dissatisfied people. But we do not believe, that if a frank and manly confidence had been exhibited towards the people that a reasonable and fair Constitution would have been rejected by them. They would have been conciliated by the full acknowledgement of their right to decide upon the adoption of their fundamental law, and no considerable part of them would have sacrificed their sense of duty to a mere feeling of resentment. We have had abundant evidence to satisfy our minds that while the more rancorous and heated partizans were ready to vote down anything that might be preready to vote down anything that might be pre-sented, the great body of the people, intelligent and sober-minded men of business, having but little interest in mere party squabbles, were pre pared to judge of the Constitution upon its real merits, and to vote accordingly.

With all our unfortunate history before us, with the spirit of agitation and strife still slumbering among us, and ready to be aroused at any moment by the slightest wrong or even appearance of injustice, we cannot but repeat our declaration, that all the laborious deliberations of the Convention have culminated in folly, and are calculated to produce nothing but mis tune to the Territory. The people cannot be deceived by the mockery of an election, in which they are at liberty only to choose between two propositions, when perhaps they may not be willing to take either of them. It matters but little, under existing circumstances, whether these alternative propositions are good or bad. The people; conscious of possessing the right of accepting or rejecting according to their own good pleasure, will not suffer themselves to be forced in the matter at all-not even to accept a good Constitution, if it be forced upon them in a manner in consistent with their right of choice. If a good Constitution may be thus imposed upon them without their consent, a bad one may be as well. The accidental character of the two propositions presented to the people by this stratagem, does not effect the question of right as to the manner of their presentation, and the utter want of freedom in the performance of this great act of sovereignty-the adoption of a State Constitu

We do not know what will be the immediate result of this unfortunate proceeding of the Convention. Whether the mass of the people will participate in the vote upon the alternative proposition, or leave them to be decided by an inconsiderable party which elected the members of the Convention, we are wholy unable to predict. We are inclined to think that the Free State par ty generally will refrain from voting, and that trouble will be produced by the adoption of a Constitution known to be unacceptable to the majority of the population.

Most earnestly do we deprecate a result so unfortunate, and ealculated to produce such serious disturbance. Will the troubles of this unhappy Territory never have an end? Will parties never cease to struggle for ascendency to be gained by stratagem, instead of by a fair and manly ap-peal to public opinion? We believe there will never be peace and quiet in Kansas, until every question of difference shall have been honestly sub mitted to the judgment of the people and decided by them without restraint or hindrance. vice adopted for the purpose of evading this or-deal, will but prolong the struggle infinitely and give perpetuity to trouble and to angry agitation.

Another Slave Case .- On Saturday night last three of the slaves of Wm. > CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 10. Eds. Pic: Since the mail was made up nothing of importance has transpired, although rumors are on every tongue. The pronunciados are everywhere hovering about the city, and their plan has just reached my hands. It has not yet been made public. It provides for the calling of Congress or council of principal men from the States, who shall name a President. The person Anna is the person to be named, provided they can get in the city.

The dictatorship is to continue from the 3d inst., date of the extraordinary powers, to the 30th of

ON BOARD STEAMSHIP TENNESSEE.

Tuesday, Nov. 24, 1857. When in the city of Mexico, I was satisfied that the revolutionists could concentrate their strength upon no one but Santa Anna, and since coming aboard this steamer I have learned, through a source worthy of the highest consideration, that Santa Anna is the mau. Negotiations have been pending between him and the revolu-tionists for some time past, and his arrival on the coast of Mexico at any moment would not be a matter of surprise. His coming will be the signal for the downfall of Comonfort, who is said for a month past to have had his trunk ready for leaving the country.

Since your last advices the revolutionists have the Currency. made no headway in their detached, disconcerted and predatory style of warfare. On the 8th Mejia, who had taken Queretaro by assault was compelled to retire by the advance of a detach-ment of national troops from Guanajuato, after levying a contribution of about $19,000 upon the wealthy citizens, and the city is now in the hands of the Government. At Guadalajara, Gen. Blan-carte, one of the chiefs of the revolution, was expected, although he had not made his appearance. On the 8th, Gen. Portilla, on his return Vera Cruz, whither he had gone with the specie train, was attacked by a band of pronunciados under Trujeque. He concealed his battery to a favorable moment, when he opened upon the enemy and completely routed them, killing and wounding quite a number. This event was fol-lowed in Puebla by an attempted rising on the 11th, which was timely discovered by the Gover-nor. The emissaries of the revolutionists were permitted to enter the quarters of the soldiers whom they were to corrupt, when they were seized and five of them shot on the spot.

On the 18th the town of Cuoutla was abandon ed by the policemen and soldiers, and disorder reigned supreme in consequence of fears of the approach of Vicario. Toluca, the capital of the State of Mexico, has been in a state of siege for a week or two. It is held by Gen. Lamberg, who was reinforced from Mexico a few days since, and has been hourly in expectation of an attack. On the 7th, the town of Chietla, twenty-one leagues South of Puebla, was sacked by a band of two hundred partisans. The most active operations were, however, in the south near Cuernavaca Another engagement had taken place, which resulted this time in the defeat of the pronuncia-

On the 6th inst., the extraordinary powers granted to Comonfort were officially promulgated, but up to the time of our leaving the capital there seemed to have been no important result flowing therefrom. On the night of the 5th a revolution was actually contemplated in the capital itself, and the next morning a whole hattalion of the National Guard had to be disbanded, while a number of persons were imprisoned as partici-pants in the rebellion. The negotiations for a loan of five millions, which was going on during the two weeks we were in the capital, had not been cluded, although the most exorbitant interest was offered. The Government is therefore, without money; and strange as it may seem, retains power by reason of its own weakness, coupled, it s true, with the want of a leader upon whom the elements of opposition can concentrate. The revolutionists feel convinced that when they are ready for their decisive blow, Comonfort must in-evitably fall, and hence they remain content for the present. His political friends, it is said, will not permit him to leave the country, and although he has pursued a policy dictated by almost culpable clemency, it is very doubtful if his life will be spared should he fall.

Our party from California, consisting of Col. Inge, Major Carpenter, Messrs. Bell and Washington, left the city of Mexico on the 17th, and arrived without molestation in Vera Cruz on the morning of the 20th. WASHINGTON, NOV. 27

Governor Walker had an interview yesterday The Constitutional Convention adjourned last Saturday night, after having completed its labors, by the adoption of a Constitution, with a provision for submitting slavery clause to a vote of the people. It remains to be seen whether this partial and imperfect opportunity to mould the institutions of the nascent State, will satisfy the people who are most interested in them.

The news is of great importance. The extraordinary dietatorial powers had been granted in full to the President, but the Republie was in a most distracted condition. Another general revolution seemed to impend. The Tennessee olution seemed to impend the subject, two. Walker never conceals his opinions, and is very apt to maintain them with firmnes and decision when once formed. Gov. Walker is utterly opposed to the action of the constitutional convention, and iusisss upon the morning of the 15th inst., from the capital. Mr. W. Moran, editor of the English paper, the certain that we are correctly advised in all particulars. But according to our information, the people who are most interested in them.

The proceedings of the Convention have not yet been published, and we are not altogether certain that we are correctly advised in all particulars. But according to our information, the question upon which the people are autorized to decide is upon the peculiar provisions presented on the subject of slavery. They are called upon to vote "For the Constitution with slavery," or "Touchiers the constitution with slavery," or "Touchiers the constitution of the entire to the action of the constitutional convention, and the action of the constitutional convention of the entire to the morning of the 15th inst., from the capital. Nine tenths of the people of Kansas are opposed, and will disapprove. The question there has passed beslavery men. The question upon which parties in Kansas are now arrayed is whether the shall have the right of self government. Whether Gov. Walker will be able to impress his own views upon the Administration in regard to the bject is to be seen.

It is entirely certain, however, that any at empt by the federal government to force the con named may or may not be in the country at the time of the sitting of the council. Ojala! The utterly abortive. No State government formed provision for the election of a non-resident to the Presidential chair is proof positive that Santa perform their functions. It is to be hoped, therefore, that Congress will, as soon as the Kansas constitution shall be presented to them, refer in back to the people, together with a law, framed upon the model of the Minnesota act, for the for mation of a State constitution preparatory to the admission of the State into the Union. No party need object to this course, and it is not to be taken for granted that the Administration will be

The propriety of such an arrangement is apparent, from the fact that it will avoid telegraphic blunders and secure a correct publication in the news papers distant from the capitol at the earliest practicable moment. Although the utmost care has been taken to prevent redundant language, the message is unavoidably long, owing to the prominent subjects of Kansas, Central America, and

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.

The Tribune's Washington correspondent says that the interview between Buchanan and Walker has assumed a new aspect. Friendly professions are still interchanged. It is understood that Walker will resign or be removed before the meeting of Congress. Buchanan justifiees his course on the ground that the legality of the con vention was recognised by Congress and himself, and he is bound to accept its work, though he would have preferred the submission of the whole constitution. The constitution and schedule which recently appeared in the Union were submitted by Governor Calhoun as literal transcripts. DEATH OF A PIONEER .- Dispatches were received yesterday morning from Cincinnati announcing the sudden death of Capt. Wm. Metcalfe, in that city, the evening previous, of disease of the heart.

Mr. Metcalfe had long been a citizen of Cineinnati, and he has departed full of honors and of years, leaving a very numerous progeny, having lived long enough to see all of them grown up men and women. He was the father of Col. Joseph Metcalfe, of this city, who, together with three other brothers, went to Cincinnal vesterably on the resil best nati yesterday on the mail boat to attend the funeral

Capt. Wm. Metcalfe was one of the earliest pioueers that settled in the west, making Cincinnati his home some forty years ago. He emigrated from Scotland several years prior to his settle-ment at Cincinnati. Subsequently he went to Pittsburg, where in conjunction with others he built two steamboats, or rather converted a conple of stout keel boats into steamboats. He took charge of one of the boats, which, in he the old country, he called the Albion. With her he started on a voyage to Cincinnati and the falls morning of the 20th. MATRIMONY.

Matrimony is a nut
For every man's digestion;
When the shell is fairly cracked,
Pop! goes the question.

l'retty girls will sign and blush-Simper all they can, sir— Till, from out their pouting lips, Pop! goes the answer.

Cupid fans the holy flame—
Rankest kind of arson—
When it gains a certain height,
Pop! goes the parson.

Quite throughout the honeymoon— Made of rosy colors— Into sandry dry good tills, Pop! go the dollars, When a year has shown its tail,

Round the corner, (may be.)
Out upon the happy world,
Pop! goes a baby. Mother gives it catnip tea, Father gives it brandy, And adown its gastic tube, Pop! goes the candy.

Madam lets her husband scold, She must be the whipper; And, above the youngsters heels, Pop! goes the slipper. Bachelor, who lives next door, Stands it for a season; But, before the year is out, Pop! goes his reason. Maiden lady, up the stairs, Stamps, each moment faster, Till, from the ceiling underneath, Pop! goes the plaster.

Dirty, ragged, little boy, 'Neath the window lingers; Thumb applied unto his nose, Pop? go the fingers.

All around the neighborhood such nuties are enacted; And, white mamma is scotding him, "l'op" goes distracted.

When Buchanan and Breckinridge were an n miceo as the Democratic candidates for Presi dent and Vice President, a shoat of exultation was raised by the Democracy of the South I was then suggested that the nomination of Buchriman was unquestionably a concession to the freesoil Democracy of the North and that he would favor the introduction of freesoilism into Kansas. But the Southern Democracy replied as with one voice that Breckinridge would be there linuce and the ark of safety to the South. Well, these Democratic candidates are elected and this champion of Southern rights is a mere eigher in the administration; he was no vote and no influence in the adoption of the measures to be pursted by the administration, and has never probably been consulted by the powers that be in Wash ington in regard to one single item of administrative policy. His very existence is as it were ig-nored by the administration, and except to pre-side over the Senate, the Vice President, of whom so much was expected and for whom so much was promised, is about as useful as a fifth wheel to a wagon. The name of Breekinridge was need by the wilv politicians in the Cincinna tic sevention to carry Kentucky and to entrap Southern votes for the Democratic nominees, and those who hoped or expected or relied upon the promise that he would have any share in the ad-mustration of our national affairs have been grievously deceived and disappointed -Lou.

We remember well that, during the last Presi dential canvass, it was a favorite argument with Democratic stump speakers that even if the election of President should devolve upon the House of Representatives, Mr. Fillmore would have no chance; because, they said, the Republican, Democratic, and American, Representatives in Congress will all uphold their respective candidates, the Senate will have the election of a Vice President and of course will elect John C President before the 4th of March, 1857, Mr. Breckinridge will then become President of the United States. When this argument was brought forward the Democratic portion of the audiences would invariably cheer the speaker far more enthusiastically than at any compliment he might not the merest humbing and clap-trap. bestow upon "old Buck," whom none of them knew, and for whom few of them cared-thus showing that they would far rather Breckinridge should be President than the venerable gentle man from Pennsylvania In fact, we are not sure but that many of them secretly hoped that sented is whether Kansas is to be admitted as the sands of Mr. Buchanan's life might run out State with a Constitution formed by a body of before the expiration of his term of office, and that the gallant young Kentuckian might in that way become President. Certain it is that he was looked to as the person who would undoubtedly keep the Administration straight as far as the rights of the South were concerned. How do these a mere cipher in the Administration, his opinions being seldom, if ever, asked, and he being impotent for either good or evil. Mr. Buchanan does to the people. Consistency.

Many are the praises which have been showered upon the inestimable, because exceedingly rare, virtue, the word expressing which stands at the head of this article. But however precious the jewel may be to the minds of most men, it is evident that the editor of the Washington Union, the administration paper and the organ of the National Democracy, attaches but little value to it. Within our recollection we know of no one who has shifted his ground so completely as the said editor has upon Kansas matters. He has been guilty of the grossest and most palpable self-stultification. In its issue of July 7th, iu the present year, while the hobby of popular sov ereignty was still dwelt upon by the Democratic party, there appeared an article from which we clip the following extracts,-showing, as they clearly do, the impolicy of the course pursued by the Kansas Convention:

"We repeat that the constitution of Kansas must come from the people of Kansas. Other power to make such an instrument there is none

"But the Georgia convention, without denying this great principle, seems to think that the Constitution of Kansas ought not to be submitted on Monday, the usual day of its appearance. We postpone the day of its publication until Thes. by a direct vote of the people in their primary capacity. We udmit that this is not in all cases a day because of our desire to give the readers of our Weekly the Governor's Message in this week's paper. Hereafter during the session no Tri-Weekly paper will be issued, the Daily Commonwealth taking its place. We hope our the Constitution, either in the convention or among the people, the power of the delegates alone may put it in operation. But such is not the case in Kansas. The most violent struggle this country ever saw, upon the most important issue which the Constitution is to determine, has able to state that the publisher of this paper has been going on there for several years between parties so evenly balanced that both claim the majority, and so hostile to one another that numerous lives have been lost in the contest. Un steam presses are again at work, and will be run der these circumstances there can be no such thing constantly during the winter. We are now prethe people in any way except by their own direct ex pression of it at the polls. A Constitution not sub given to this assertion by the argument that the members of the convention could have no mo tive for refusing to submit their work to their con stituents, except a consciousness that the major ty would condemn it We confess that we should find some difficulty in answering this. What other motive could they have!
"We do most devoatly believe that, unless the Constitution of Kansas be submitted to a direct vote of the people, the unhappy controversy which has heretofore raged in that Territory will be prolonged for an indefinite time to come. We are equally well convinced that the will of the major y, whether it be for or against slavery, will final-y triumph, though it may be after years of strife, sisterous to the best interests of the cou and dangerous, it may be, to the peace and safets the whole Union. "Again: This movement of the Territorial authorities to form a Constitution is made, not in the regular way, in pursuance of an enabling and anthorizing act of Congress, but on the mere mo tion of the Territorial Legislature itself. Nay, it has been begun and carried on in the teeth of a refusal by Congress to pass such an act. This irregularity is not fatal. There are other cases in which it was overlooked. But it can be waived only in consideration of the fact that the people have expressed their will in unmistakable language If we dispense with the legal forms of proceeding we must have the substance.

"We think, for these reasons, that Gov. Walker, in advocating a submission of the Constitu-tion to a vote of the people, acted with wisdom and instice, and followed the only line of policy which promises to settle this vexed question either rightly or satisfactorily.'

We ask our readers now to read carefully the ubjoined article from the same paper, written since it had become evident that the Democratic party has become embroiled in a very pretty fami quarrel. See how disingenuously the editor what a shallow subterfuge he resorts to cover up the fact that the Democratic party, or, at least, a large portion of it, wishes now to break the pledges which they have repeatedly made that the people of Kansas should settle their own do-Breekinridge-and if the House should not elect mestic institutions to suit themselves. But al ocrats who are seriously disaffected, nor convince them that the attachment to individual rights and privileges-that "inherent sovercignty of man"which Democrats have professed to entertain, is

From the Washington Union. Topeka and Lecompton.

A very little reflection, we think, will satisfy any sincere Democrat that the real issue now pre men chosen and empowered according to all forms of law to make a Constitution, or with one formed by a body of usurpers having no pretence onvention to submit the entire Constitution to the people for ratification or rejection, on which me of our Democratic cotemporaries have gone persons feel now that their young idol has become off, will be found, on examination, not to present the true issue now involved. Under ordinary circumstances, we should most heartly have approved the submission of the whole Constitution mission is properly made is sound, and ought not to be disregarded except for sufficient reasons. We think the reasons in the present case fully justified the convention in a partial but unimpor

What is the Kansas bill with exclusive reference to the slavery question? The true intent and spirit of the Kansas bill was that the people of Kansas, when they came to form a Constitution, either adopt or reject the institution of slavery as they pleased. No candid man will dispute this proposition. The question, then, which solves solves zine. The engravings are unusually beautiful the whole matter is simply this: Has the Kansas gaged the luci natura, the Siamese Twins, and convention secured to the people of the Territory the right to make Kansas a free or slave If this right is secured, then the true spirit of the Kansas law is carried out. On this ed in the schedule to the Constitution furnishes a both. conclusive answer.

No fair minded man can read the schedule attached to the Kansas Constitution and then deny It is a contemptible quibble to say that if a majority vote for the "Constitution without slavery" from Maysville to Cincinnati, had on board thirwill still be a slave State, because "the right of inhabitants, is the seat of a large University. Gentlemen to whom this prospectus is sent will still be a slave S'ate, because "the right of property in slaves now in the Territory shall in no manner be interfered with." The convention could not have interfered with the right of property in the slaves now in Kansas. That right is fixed and declared to be valid by the highest judicial authority, and no power existed in the convention to do otherwise than respect it. To all intents and purposes, therefore, Kansas will be a free State if a majority vote for the "Constitution without slavery," and the true intent, mean.

But those of our Democratic contemporarie who object to the action of the convention insist that the whole Constitution should have been submitted to a popular vote; and because that was not done they denounce the convention as violators of the principle of the Kansas law. Will any of our objecting cotemporaries pretend that when the Kansas bill was pending it never was contemplated by anybody that the popular sovereignty clause had reference to any other subject than that of slavery? Surely not. Then it is a mere "sticking in the bark" to say that the vention has failed to carry out the great object and the true spirit of the Kansas law. The question, however, recurs, why did the convention determine to submit only the slavery clause to the popular judgment? Was it because he people ought to have the privilege ing judgment on their fundamental law? This could not be the reason, because the only question about which the popular mind was known to be agitated and divided was submitted. There had been no agitation or division on any other subject than slavery, and, in submitting this, the convention showed that it was not designed to impose a constitution on the people containing any provision on which they had indicated a desire to express their judgment. Still the inter-rogatory may be pressed—if the convention were willing to submit the slavery clause to the peoe, why not submit the residue of the constitu ion? We answer what we suppose to be the true reason. The convention wished Kansas to be admitted as a State. They wished to be admitted either as a free or slave State, as the people is the state of e might choose, and they wished it to be admit ed promptly, that there might be an end to the agitation and trouble which had so long disturb-ed the peace of the country. The only way to attain this important object was to submit for nop lar judgment the only subject which had cause the agitation and the disturbance of the national peace. It was well known that those who would vote against the slavery clause would also vote against every other clause in the Constitutionot because they objected to any other than the slavery clause, but because they denied the legal thority of the convention to sit and make egal Constitution, and because they were all the ime insisting that they had already made a legal Constitution at Topeka. To submit the whole stitution, therefore, was to endanger the fate of the whole and to prolong the agitation of the slavery question. It was known that the advocates of the Topeka Constitution would vote against any Constitution made by the legally conituted convention. It was not simply that they ere opposed to slavery, but they were factiously ent on having no Constitution that was made by a body organized in pursuance of the laws of Kan as, and none but that iliegally made at Topeka Under such circumstances, the convention determined to tender a compromise that would show They determined to carry out the spirit of the you must not die, you shall not die. ANEC DOTICAL. - Our acquaintance with Gen. VVM. T. HASKELL, of Tennessee, was commenced at the ball recently given at the Lexington Asylum. We were then struck by his lofty and commanding appearance, and delighted with the exquisite ease and elegance of his conversation. his flour he warrants in every instance. When he visited this city a day or two ago, we renewed that slight acquaintance and spent some hours in his company, being carried away by the sparklings of his glorious genius and irresistibly attracted by the poetic grandeur of his spirit. During that conversation he, among many others of a similar character, related the following anecdote, with which we were so much pleased that, at the solicitation of several gentlemen, he was induced to commit it to paper. With this brief explanation of the manner in which the following

we now give it to our readers:

FRANKFORT, Dec. 2d, 1857.

Thomas M. Green, Esq., Editor of "the Frankfort Commonwealth." SIR: Lieut. THOMAS EWELL of Gen. PERSIFER F. Smith's Rifle Regiment, now Col. Loring's, who lost an arm in Mexico, fell upon the stormswept and fire-girdled height of Cerro Gordo, leading that desperate assault.

The night before the battle, with five men, he reconnoitered and discovered the salient point of attack. In the storming of the height on the morning afterwards he threw himself, heroically, a far in advance of the charging columns, and was the first to encounter the cuemy, alone, like CARES Marcius, within the gates of Carioli. Of his death Col. Louing in his report says:

"Foremost in the assault, and first in the enemy's Citadel, was First Lieutenant Thomas Ewell, of Company 4, who in desperate, personal conflict with the last of the retreating foe, fell mortally wounded on the field of his imperishable glory." When Gen. Scorr ascended the height, he threw himself from his charger, and kneeling by his side, litted his head upon his knee, bathed in tears, and his voice trembling with manly emotion. exclaimed, "My brave boy, you will not die, you must not die, you shall not die. Live! live!

Lieut. Ewell was born in Fauquier county, Virginia, and was appointed to the army from Jackson, in Madison county, Tennessee. Ile was a grand-son of Benjamin Stoddert, Seeretary of the Treasury, under Thomas Jefferson. He fell at the early age of twenty-three. He was my intimate personal friend, and school-boy

DAILY COMMONWEALTH.

FOR THE SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

The Frankfort Commonwealth will be published daily during the approaching session of the General Assembly of Kentucky. A competent reporter will be in attendance in each House, an an accurate report of the proceedings of each day will be given the ensuing morning. The Common wealth vill thus afford the most convenient me dium of communication between the members of the Legislature and their constituents, keeping the latter informed not only of the manner in which their own local interests are represented, but of the general course of legislative proceedings, and saving to the former the trouble and labor of a great deal of private correspondence which would otherwise be indispensable. Beside reports of the proceedings of each House of the Kentucky Legislature, the Commonwealth will furnish a summary of Congressional proceedings, and of all the more important items of the current news of the day, foreign and domestic, political and miscellaneous.

THE NEW THEATER.

T 18 KNOWN to the public that we are the lessees of IT 18 KNOWN to the public that we are the lesses of I the new building recently erected by Col. Brown on St. Clair street, and which has been fused up by us, at a very considerable expense, for Theatrical performances. It is to our interest of course, that we should obtain as much patronage as possible, and we are sure that we will use every effort in our power to deserve it. We have ascertained that an impression prevails to some extent, and much to our detriment, that the walls and floors of the building are unsafe. Knowing this to be an entire mistake we have caused the house to be thoroughly examined by competent mechanics and master workmen and invite the attention of the clitzensto their statement which is herewith appended.

STETSON & WOOD, Lesses.

We whose names are signed to this statement, having parefully examined the building belonging to Col. Orando Brown, and at present occupied by Messrs.
